

THINKING CENTRE

A New Form of Intelligence

- its importance for the wellbeing of the individual and organisations -

A Talk by Eddie O'Brien

In addition to numerous other benefits in his life, Eddie O'Brien states that this new approach to communication has also played a crucial role in the survival of his business interests.

The physicist and philosopher, David Bohm, first introduced Eddie to this new form of communication at a seminar in California in 1989. Because of experiences that had already occurred in his life, Eddie was immediately drawn to this new approach to addressing the challenge of how people can communicate more intelligently and more successfully together.

Since completing his Psychology Masters in Consciousness Studies at Antioch University in the U.S., Eddie O'Brien has presented numerous talks and seminars on the subjects of communication and transformation and has had numerous articles published. He is a founding trustee of the international charity, Prison Dialogue and a trustee of the international educational charity, the Metamorphic Association.
